Alberta Editors Meet

(Special Report by Canadian Printer & Publisher Representative)

EDMONTON. The weekly newspapers are performing a major service to their communities, Alberta editors were told by W. E. McCartney of Brampton, managing director of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, at the annual convention of the Alberta Division, C.W.N.A., which met in the Macdonald Hotel here at the weekend.

The publishers discussed rising costs, shortages of materials and help, promotion of advertising; then elected officers and named the first life members. Trophies and prizes in the Better Newspapers and Commercial Printing competitions were presented.

Mr. McCartney, in his address, said that rural publishers have a large investment in buildings, plant and equipment. He said that the editors of weekly newspapers were performing a service as valuable to their community as any other profession.

The national officer gave facts on national and local advertising and said that space in a good weekly newspaper was well worth one dollar an inch to the advertiser.

COSTS ARE HIGHER

Clive B. Nesbitt of Brooks, Alberta president, presided over the sessions. Making the annual address, he said that the shortages and difficulties of war years were by no means ended.

"Costs of both material and labor have risen alarmingly, yet charges made by the weeklies for their service are very much more reasonable, particularly advertising rates."

Mr. Nesbitt said that as a group the weekly newspapers had been in the long fight against inflation which was now here, and that the home town publishers would have to demand more for their services to cover higher costs.

MADE LIFE MEMBERS

The Alberta association, which some months ago was incorporated, honored three pioneer editors who had rendered special meritorious services through the years, including the early press organizations preceding the present.

Delegates made these honorary Life Members: Charles Clark Sr., founder of the High River Times, who began publishing there in territorial days and has served as national president; Sam R. Hodson, veteran publisher of the Okotoks Review, whose illness prevented his presence at attendance at more than forty press conventions; and A. L. Horton, who founded the Vegreville Observer in 1906 and whose editorials are widely quoted. Illuminated addresses will be presented to all three.

The convention stood in silent tribute to the memory of W. H. Schierholtz, for some years publisher of the Rocky Mountain House Mountaineer and a past president who died some weeks ago.

OFFICERS ELECTED

William W. Draayer, publisher of the Wetaskiwin Times, was elected President, succeeding Mr. Nesbitt. Elected First Vice-president, Bernard Pletschet of La Survivance, Edmonton; executive, A. Balloch of Coleman Journal; C. A. MacLean of Strathmore Standard; Ronald Newson of Olds Gazette, and Garth Johnston of Peace River Record.

C. A. Clark of High River, was appointed secretary for the sixth year.

A CORRECTION

In the report of Community Council Treasurer's statement in last week's Standard, receipts should have read $1,118.54, not $118.54. That "typographical error" again. What a difference one figure or letter can make!

LANGDON NOTES

By G.E.W.

Special appreciation was voiced recently by the Langdon Woman's Institute for all the contributions they received for the "Food Parcels for Britain."

Men's Club Heers A.O.T.S.

It was unfortunate there was not a larger audience to hear the very vital message given Monday evening in the Memorial Room of the United Church when D. R. Poole of Vancouver gave a very forceful address on the work of the A.O.T.S. Groups. The letters signify "As One That Serves"

The speaker stated the group was organized 25 years ago, and is now in Toronto, Winnipeg, and Vancouver, growing very rapidly.

The work is done within the Church, not apart from it and all meetings are held in Church buildings. However Mr. Poole said the A.O.T.S. frequently enroll men who have not been habitual church goers but later became active church members. The tradition of the group member is that he is there to serve, not just attend and Mr. Poole mentioned a number of ways in which service could be rendered.

The speaker in a very forceful appeal urged each do his utmost in building a world community on this pattern to avoid any further world conflicts. We had been so absorbed in the rapid advance of science and a materialistic philosophy that we were not sufficiently concerned with the condition that led up to the two previous wars, Mr. Poole declared. He asked what has Christianity to contribute as an answer? The teaching of the Sermon on the Mount. We must strengthen our Democracy, to think things through, to build a public opinion open to hear and practice Good Will to All.

Vern Hansen, president of the Men's Club, proposed an appreciative vote of thanks to the speaker for his able address.

A delicious chicken supper was provided by the W.A. The tables being prettily decorated with Autumn flowers and foliage.

Rev. S. R. Hunt, under whose pastorate the club was organized, was present.

The meeting closed with the Benediction by Rev. A. Hamilton.

Purpose in Conventions

Attendance at 2 newspaper conventions in the short span of three weeks, though providing a leisurely interlude we are not quite used to, but to which we could be persuaded with comparative ease, provides at the same time an opportunity to take stock.

An opportunity to take stock of the work our paper is doing in the community. An opportunity to take stock of what our paper should be doing. An opportunity to take stock of whether or no our paper measures up to the standards of other papers serving other communities.

A newspaper exists to circulate news, and in our case, we feel that our readers want local news. This has been our objective, and we hope that we have in some measure achieved.

Our editorial columns are reserved not for our own opinions only, but also for opinions we consider may interest our readers. It may not agree with our own opinion, and we'll likely say so, but we feel it's only honest to show the other side's platform also. Undoubtedly we make mistakes. Changing developments and new ideas often outmoded our established bases.

It is largely through the financial support of advertisers that any newspaper is made possible. We do not accept advertising revenue in any spirit of charity, but feel that full value is given our advertisers for each dollar expended. We therefore urge our readers to patronize advertisers in The Standard.

Referring back to local news, we must say a word for the country correspondents. We cannot praise them too highly, for most of the local news is derived through their columns.

As the Lacomb Globe says, in quoting from the Wainwright Star: "They are the old faithfuls," and the Star goes on:

"They report the homely little everyday happenings that can mean so much. Unlike daily newspaper writing, there's not much glamor to the life of a country correspondent. But there is field for much personal satisfaction; satisfaction that is derived from accurate reporting of activities of one's own community; satisfaction from stories that will do much in promoting the district."

Bob's Woodlot

This week in his Farmer's Column, "Bob" Milligan suggests casually the advantages to many farmers of a farm wood lot. We're pleased to see him bring up this idea.

We've always felt that trees in some of the waste spots on a farm would be a big help. They will eventually produce firewood, they help to prevent erosion, they help the soil materially, they are a scenic relief in what may be as hot a moist, they tend to hold moisture in the soil, and they also tend to attract moisture in the atmosphere.

We're sure many of our farmers, of European origin, must feel at most lonely looking at fields with not a suggestion of shrubbery or trees, compared with their old homes, which abounded in both.

"What Kind of People Do They Think We Are?"

The furor which has been created by the action of the United States Department of Justice in issuing sub poenas to the Canadian newspaper industry has probably not been paralleled in many years. From one end of our country to the other, a storm of indignation and protest has arisen, and certainly rightly so.

The citizens of Strathmore, or Standard, or Rockyford, or any other town, would be upset if the City of Calgary were to demand access to any record of the town's businessmen, and Canada and the United States are in the same position.

As reported in an editorial reprinted in next week's issue, from the New York Journal-American, many individuals in the United States can side as likewise at a loss to interpret their governments action. The Department of Justice represents the highest authority in the United States, and if this body does not accept Canada as a sovereign, what must the man in the street American feel about our country.

It must be wondered, also, just what attitude the government of the country does take towards Canada. Following so shortly after the irresponsible ultimatum regarding railway cars, one might be excused for wondering whether the former was actually done, as claimed, with out authorization.

One wonders about the "Good Neighbor Policy" and one might also think about the "overtures of friendship" offered to small neighbours by Russia.

We are certainly in agreement with the Calgary Albertan which states editorially that they hope the Canadian businessmen will ignore the sub poenas issued, but that the Canadian government will lick up an awful fuss.

Duggan read a short story called the "Boomer" which was enjoyed by all. A delicious treat was served to fourteen members.

The next meeting will be held at the hall on Friday 31 with Mrs. A. Gammest hosting.

The W.L. Girl's Club. The Nightingale Country Pals, held a very successful concert and dance at the hall last Friday. Every number of the concert was well given and we are proud of the girls for a really great concert. The following program was presented. Piano solo—Edna Wise; Monologue, Forgetful; news, Maureen Hilton; Just So song (action song by five small girls); Duet—Shirley Logan and Lorraine Hendricks; Reading "Casey at the

NEW PAINT JOB

Baldwin Motors has been busy redecorating the tow truck for the fall season, and has emerged with a burst of red and yellow which looks like anything but a tow truck. The new color scheme is the same as that established by Ford in many other centres, we understand.

Nothing has been added to the tow charge for this super de luxe appearance, and we can almost imagine motorists getting stuck purposely for the pleasure of being towed in behind this flashy machine.

NEW MACHINERY AT LAUNDRY

The wind can blow, and the snow can snow, for all Cliff Wills cares these days. The Laundry will still go through, he says, and points to his new drying machine, which eliminates the necessity of hanging clothes outside.

The new tumbler is a steam heated machine, and whirles the clothes, from which most of the moisture has been withdrawn in the extractor, in a small drum under terrific heat. The remaining moisture is absorbed and the clothes come out ready for ironing.

Previous to installation, Cliff had to hang the clothes outside on the line for the final drying, and he was becoming worried about the weather as the weeks went by and his machine did not arrive. It's been months coming, and Cliff's finger nails are something awful from biting.

"IF"

The late W. D. Albright, for years superintendent of the Beaverfoot Experimental Station, wrote the following verses in 1941 when the Peace River block was enduring exceptionally bad harvest weather.

If you can keep a smile when all about you
 The pouring rains are rotting all your hay
 While grain is sprouting in the oft-drenched bundles
 And ears mire daily on the King's Highway;

If you can watch your feed bins running empty,
 And find no chance to thresh a load of grain
 Can see your fallow greening as a meadow,
 With weeds and grass, throughout two months of rain;

If you can wade through barnyards miring deeper
 And see the pigs convert their lots to mud;
 If you can feed a crew and get no work done,
 While every hope of fairing proves a dud;

If you can see the sun in broad effulgence
 Shine forth as if in promise of fair days,
 Then dodge behind a snowy cloud, repentant,
 While snow flakes hide his weak and yellow rays;

If you can see a summer's work dissolving,
 And face a winter minus feed or cash;
 Can still maintain the spirit of Thanksgiving,
 When every blessed prospect seems to crash;

If you can stand all this and keep your courage
 And cheer a fellow farmer to the end,
 Yours is the land, and everything that's on it,
 And, what is more, you are a brick my friend.

First Estimates on Grain Crops

The grain supply situation in Canada for the 1947-48 crop year is less favourable than a year ago, says the Current Review of Agricultural Conditions in Canada. The carry-over of wheat and coarse grains from the 1946-47 crop is again at a near minimum working level. Estimates of wheat production in the current year indicate a reduction of 15 per cent while a reduction of 19 per cent is anticipated for coarse grains. The earlier favourable outlook for good yields in Western Canada deteriorated in July when high temperatures and lack of rain extended over wide areas. This was followed by insect and hail damage. However, in Ontario and Quebec, hot dry weather in August permitted ripening of fall-sown and early spring sown grains. In the Maritimes, adequate rainfall and warm weather resulted in prospects for good yields.

The 1947 Canadian wheat crop is estimated at 358,785,000 bushels, of which 236,000,000 bushels is the Western production, says the Review. Total coarse grain production is estimated at 567,404,000 bushels. The total yield of oats is placed at 460,000,000 bushels, a reduction of 27 per cent in both Eastern and Western Canada. Barley production estimated at 159,887,000 bushels is a reduction of 3 per cent from 1946. The rye crop is expected to amount to 7,448,000 bushels, an increase of 80 per cent. Eastern Canada's coarse grain production is 27 per cent below 1946. In Western Canada, where about 75 per cent of the country's coarse grain will be produced this year, the reduction amounts to a total of 16 per cent.

TREES

After the recent heavy, wet snow, many large and small branches have been broken or split on our wind breaks, shelter belts and ornamental trees. When we can not thresh or field work, I suggest that the damaged limbs be removed with a saw. Make a clean cut from the bottom upward to avoid, where possible, splitting. All old and new cuts should be painted to prevent rotting from moisture and fungus. Nature has a cruel way of showing how to prune and remove the weak or limbs and branches. To be a good horticulturalist, one must be cruel and cut back and cut off undesirable parts of the trees. Don't pile the broken off limbs and burn them but use the larger branches for fire wood. Manitoba Maple makes a very hot fire and lasts quite well.

If your tree is a valuable, slow growing tree like Elm or Ash, some of the larger branches could be strengthened by bracing to gether by chains attached to bolts that pass through the limbs. After chaining the large limbs, cover all cracks with hot tar, resin or cement. Protect your trees and they will pay you dividends. Why not start a farm wood lot along waste water courses and creeks. Plant slow growing trees like Ash, Elm, Douglas Fir, White and Red Pine.

PREPAREDNESS

I like to hear things about people that show progressiveness and preparedness. Mr. Verwieke has taken parts of his threshing machine into the Welding Shop in Strathmore to have it repaired for next year. All farmers should practice this and avoid delays in the fall. I'm also sure that the machinists in this town and others would like to see the farmers doing so as to relieve them during the harvest season.

The time to do your repair work is right after using an implement. It is at this time the parts that are worn are clearly remembered and should be attended to. I would recommend others following Mr. Verwieke's foresightedness.

LANGDON NOTES

By G.E.W.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Brander returned to their home in White Rock, B.C. last Wednesday, after a six week visit with their son John and family at Langdon and son Sandy and family at Sunnyslope.

Mrs. S. McNeill and baby son, Colin, flew back to Alberni, B.C. after a month's visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Wenstrom.

Mrs. A. Warrack has been suffering with a sore hand and after receiving medical attention, was ordered to rest for a few days. We are very pleased to report that the hand is steadily improving, and we will see Mrs. Warrack out again soon.

Mrs. Scott had as her guests for Sunday, her daughter and son in law, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Johnston, M.P., and Dorothy and her son and his wife, also their small son Murray.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Kuckinkas and family were pleasantly surprised on Friday evening when a number of their friends and neighbors called on them. Bingo was played during the evening, later a tasty lunch was served. Mr. Scott presented the honored guests with a Mahogany serving tray and six glasses. Mr. and Mrs. Kuckinkas then thanked their friends for such a lovely gift and how much they appreciated before they leave to make their home in Tudor, where Tony is section foreman. We wish them good luck in their new home.

Rev. A. S. Wood, secretary of the Bible Society for Southern Alberta, showed interesting pictures and gave a fine sermon on the work of the Society last Sunday evening under the auspices of the United Church.

Mr. Jake Reimer will give his farewell service in the Baptist Church on Sunday evening, October 19, 8:00 p.m. He leaves to continue his studies at Bible School.

Mrs. Ted Albertson was a gracious hostess on Monday afternoon to thirty ladies when she entertained at tea for her mother in law, Mrs. K. Albertson, who has just recently celebrated her 81st Birthday.

The afternoon was thoroughly enjoyed by the ladies who visited with each other. Among those who sat with the honored guest at the tea table were Mrs. S. Dain, Mrs. W. D. Braden and Mrs. E. T. Moe. A sumptuous lunch was served, each lady having a piece of the lovely Birthday cake, made by Mrs. G. Buntain. A Birthday gift was then presented to Mrs. Albertson by Mrs. Buntain, president of the Langdon Woman's Institute. The guest of honor thanked the ladies and wished they all lived till they were 81 and had as much kindness shown to them.

Before the group departed for home a presentation was made by Mrs. A. Watson to Mrs. G. Buntain as president of the Langdon Women's Institute in appreciation of her work. She and her husband are leaving shortly to make their home near Calgary. This being somewhat of a surprise Mrs. Buntain responded in her usual happy manner.

Mrs. Albertson was assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Silkstone and Dorothy, also Mrs. Dumbleton, Mrs. P. Dain, and Mrs. Buntain.

David Thomas has been on the sick list for a few days. Hope he soon feels like himself again, and will be around.

Mr. Dick Bittle is also ill at home with an attack of tonsillitis. Hope he will be feeling better in a few days.

The Langdon H. & S. held their regular meeting Tuesday, October 7, when a busy evening of matters of school were discussed. Lunch was served by Mrs. Bittle and Mrs. Robinson and much enjoyed by all.

Farm News

RAISING GOOD DAIRY CALVES (Experimental Farms News)

As the cost of raising a poor calf is almost as great as raising a good calf, the successful dairyman replaces his herd with calves from his best cows that have been bred to the highest quality bull obtainable.

Raising the dairy calf begins with the pregnant cow which has had proper feeding and care, particularly before freshening.

Whole milk is fed for the first four to eight weeks and is gradually changed to skim milk over a two-week period. Less robust calves are kept on whole milk for a long or period than the healthier calves. Care is exercised not to overfeed calves, about one pound of milk for each ten pounds of body weight.

As the change-over from whole milk to skim milk is made, the butterfat is replaced by scalded flax seed meal which forms a jelly. As the calves develop, a mixture of three parts of ground sifted oats and two parts of peas are added to two parts of flax seed meal scalded, making a porridge to be added to the milk. The feeding of this porridge is increased gradually until at three to four months of age the calves are receiving a cupful in skim milk. At four weeks the calves are encouraged to eat a dry grain mixture of five parts ground oats, three parts bran, three parts oil cake meal one part malt sprouts, one per cent salt. This is placed in a trough within easy reach. At five months a calf should eat up to two pounds per day.

Only the best quality hay available should be fed to calves. Second cut alfalfa or fine clover carefully cured makes a very good roughage. This is made available at about three weeks of age and fed in quantities the calves will clean up. Succulent feeds such as silage or roots are fed, starting at about six months of age. Fresh clean water should be available at all times.

The feeding of vitamins to calves is recommended by some authorities. At the Experimental Farm no vitamin supplement is added, as it is considered that sufficient vitamin content is supplied in the ration. Under certain circumstances of apparent vitamin deficiency, the addition of vitamin capsules will alleviate scours and other types of unthriftiness.

To get the maximum returns from a dairy herd it must consist of well grown healthy cows. Careful attention paid to the type of calves raised and their early feeding is the best insurance toward this goal.

CANADIAN LEGION HOLDS MEETING

Two new members were admitted to the Strathmore Branch of the Legion on Tuesday night at the regular meeting, Melvin Christensen, of Carleland, and P. E. Weekes of Strathmore, who transferred from the Calgary branch.

It was announced that the zone representative for this area was C. W. Hall of Brooks. This is a smaller zone than it used to be, and it is hoped that the area can thereby become better consolidated.

A donation was made to the C.N.I.B. fund.

In appreciation of the work done by the Ladies Auxiliary, in improving the hall premises, the members passed a hearty vote of thanks to the Auxiliary.

A bee to clean up was arranged for a week Sunday, and members asked to bring shovels and rakes. It is expected to have the flag pole ready for erection at that time. The pole has been moved from its location to the other side of the side walk, behind the Memorial Stone, and erected on a pivoted base.
